

Joseph F. Audette, M.A., M.D.

Assistant Professor, Harvard Medical School

Chief, Department of Pain Management

Atrius Health

133 Brookline Avenue

Boston, MA 02215

Tel: 617-421-2827

Email: joseph_audette@atriushealth.org

Medical Training: Harvard Medical School in 1991 and completed a residency in Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation at Columbia Presbyterian Hospital in New York in 1995.

Board certified in PM&R and Pain.

Acupuncture Training: While in New York, trained at the Tristate School of Traditional Chinese Medicine. Course Founder, AcuMed – Integrated Structural Acupuncture for Physicians

Current Work Role: Chief of the Department of Pain Management at Atrius Health, Boston MA. Lead multidisciplinary team for pain management including Physiatry, Anesthesia, PT and Psychology where we also integrate acupuncture, massage, chiropractic and mind body strategies.

Other roles: Past Member of Committee on Acupuncture, Massachusetts Board of Registration in Medicine

President of American Academy of Medical Acupuncture

Course Director of Physician Acupuncture Course: Integrated Structural Acupuncture for Physicians and founder of ACUMED.ORG